

Expiration Reminder Notices

This policy is applicable for all registrations of Generic Top Level Domains.

www.united-domains.de/agb/vergaberichtlinien/generische-endungen

If your domain name is set to expire (e.g. because your registration contract with united-domains has been cancelled) we will in general notify you of the upcoming expiration approximately 1 month and again one week before the expiration date. We might not be able to send one or both notifications to you if your domain name is set to expire on very short notice.

If you wish to keep your domain name, please contact our customer support that will gladly assist you with resuming your contract and avoid the expiration of your domain.

After your domain has expired, you will receive another notification from us. The renewal of your domain may then only be possible for a limited amount of time and could be associated with additional cost.

No notifications will be sent for already deleted domains.
